"Categories" gets students moving and helps them see that we all have things in common.

Instruct students to move to a particular location if they have a specific physical attribute or preference for something that you list.

Start with safe categories for the students like eye color. If you have blue eyes, go to that corner. If you have brown eyes, go to that other corner, etc. Or number of siblings. If you are and only child, go to that corner, if you have one sibling, go to that other corner, and so on. Or born in what part of the country…

Move into more risky topics such as under wear color…
