

"Name Tag" is a name game.

This is an opportunity for all to begin learning names of others in the group. Have your group stand in a circle. Tell the group they just need to know one thing in order to do this activity. Each person must be able to remember their own name. I usually have everyone raise their hand if they can remember their own name before I give the rest of the instructions.

Each person says their own name one at a time around the circle starting with the leader. To add some fun, use a watch to see how long it takes to go around. Try going both ways at once.
